ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, Md. – The Assembled Chemical Weapons Alternatives, or ACWA, program announces the launch of its new Facebook page (www.facebook.com/pmacwa) and Twitter page (www.twitter.com/acwanews).

In an effort to increase online public outreach and information available to various program stakeholders, ACWA is expanding its online presence to include Facebook and Twitter to provide opportunities for sharing program information and updates, as well as gain feedback from stakeholders.

“The ACWA program is grounded in the principles of participatory public involvement and transparency and these new resources provide us the opportunity to interact with our stakeholders in new ways,” said Program Manager Kevin Flamm.

The new Facebook and Twitter pages are part of ACWA’s robust online presence including the ACWA website, as well as Flickr Photostream, YouTube Channel and RSS Feed.
